Why We Are Here

A postsecondary education - college, trade school, and other pathways - unlocks opportunities for students and entire communities. Yet for millions of underserved students, it remains out of reach. In Massachusetts, only 18% of students from low-income communities are expected to obtain a college degree within six years of high school graduation, but their peers from high-income communities are expected to graduate at rates four times that*. This is not for lack of ambition or talent, but for lack of support.

Building a Generation of Graduates in Massachusetts

Navigating the postsecondary landscape is complex, especially for first-generation students and students of color. But after nearly 20 years working alongside educators and students, we know what works.

We partner with districts and high schools to ensure high-quality postsecondary advising and support become integral to the high school experience for all students.

OneGoal supported me every step of the way, from helping me write my application essay to stepping in when I had issues with financial aid. Their guidance has been key in helping me figure out my goals and stay on track. I am truly grateful for everything they've done for me."
